Kai Ridler is an emerging artist, born in South Australia. Thanks to his mother, Kai's early life was filled with the influence of acting and singing. Kai, however, would not find his love for singing and performance until the age of 22, working in occupations such as beekeeping, oyster farming, trail building, and many more before discovering his passion for theatre. Since commencing his education at the Arts Academy, Kai has become adept in all facets of performance, with a particular fixation on screen and its capacity for exploration. He has had the pleasure of performing in The Caucasian Chalk Circle (Simon), directed by James Wardlaw; Cyprinidae: Stories From Russia (Multiple roles), directed by Ross Hall; and most recently in Crush: The Musical (Dorian/Mr Smart/Marlene), directed by Beng Oh. During his education, he was also a part of After Joan, a self-devised work directed by Angela Campbell and written by Emma Hall. In addition, Kai had the honour of collaborating lyrically and performatively with Richard Chew in his original composition of Ariel Songs.
