

Kevin Chang

Actor | Producer

About Kevin

Kevin Chang is a Taiwanese-born Australian actor, producer and creative entrepreneur based in Brisbane. He brings charm, intelligence and vulnerability to his performances, with a personable and confident screen presence. Beyond acting, Kevin is known for his drive, grit and entrepreneurial spirit. Someone who takes initiative, builds relationships and turns ideas into action.

A unique blend of artist and business-minded creative with a background of accounting. He has worked across television commercials, short films and independent productions, while being mentored in production accounting by experienced industry professionals. In recent years, Kevin has become a passionate builder of networks, communities and projects, combining his love of storytelling with a strong business mindset. This led him to establish Actors Play Night Weekly, an affordable space for actors to train, experiment and connect. He also created and produced Play Night Live, a fresh approach to screen storytelling through a web series filmed live in front of an audience.

Kevin has established Little Corner Productions, a production company currently in development and set to launch in 2027.

Acting Highlights

From film and television to commercials and live events, Kevin's career as an actor has been full of variety, a testiment to his versatility and charisma.

Over the years, Kevin has accumulated commercial credits for a number of recognisable brands such as National Storage, Ferrero Rocher, XRecruiter and Shine Lawyers.

Kevin has recently wrapped three projects, showcasing his range across horror, action and drama. Audiences can expect to see him as Richie, a homeless thief in the upcoming horror short film No Devil Lived On; as Andrew Lee, a mobster's right-hand man in the action drama Retribution; and in a more heartfelt turn as Cole, a son navigating a deeply personal story in Play Night Live.

Some of Kevin's other short film credits include Burger 69 and The Line in Between.

Beyond the Screen
Film Awards & Workshops

Kevin is huge on professional development and building valuable relationship across the industry. There are few highlights:

A familiar face at the Asia Pacific Screen Awards, Kevin has served as a Trophy Delegate for four consecutive years. The experience has seen him work alongside industry names including Nina Oyama, Lizzy Hoo, Shuang Hu and Shonee Samia, while also leading to paid mentorship opportunities and content creation work with Shuang Hu across her social platforms, reaching a combined audience of over 13 million followers.

In 2025, Kevin was selected from more than 300 applicants to join Screen Queensland's FISS program, an emerging filmmaker initiative that gave him hands-on experience within the production department across a national TVC and a Screen Queensland-funded short film.

Kevin is also the creator of Actors Play Night, an affordable weekly "gym" for actors — a relaxed environment where performers can come together, create quality work, build confidence and get their reps in. What began in Kevin's apartment with a small group of friends has since grown into workshops with working industry professionals, including director Ash Diggins of Babel Creative.

> Kevin is one of those rare people who is genuinely brilliant across everything he does, an actor, creative, and somehow an accountant on top of it all. We've had the chance to work together at APSA, and what stands out most about Kevin is the sincerity he brings into every room. He has this natural ability to make people feel seen, valued and completely welcome, while still bringing so much talent, professionalism and heart to his work. He's an absolute gem of a human and someone I'm always grateful to work alongside.

Beyond the Screen

Creator, Producer & Director

Kevin has recently stepped into the roles of Producer and Director with his original project, Play Night Live — a fresh approach to storytelling through an 11-episode anthology web series filmed live in front of an audience. Taking a significant creative and financial risk, Kevin drew on his network and everything he had learned throughout his journey to bring the project to life.

The production brought together a cast and crew of 40, ranging from established working professionals to emerging filmmakers, culminating in sold-out live performances and positive industry reception from professionals including Sheila Lind, Mandy Lake and Elizabeth Symes.

Kevin is now developing new projects, with discussions also underway for the next season of Play Night Live. Continuing to build on this momentum, he has established Little Corner Productions, a production company set to launch in 2027.

> Working with Kevin on his Play Night Live production was very smooth and well organised. His ability to take information on board and act on it helped keep everyone on the same page enabling the full production to be completed on time and to budget.

Training

Kevin has trained with a wide range of respected acting coaches, beginning with Kristy Sexton's four-month program and becoming a member of the Kristy Group, where he developed his craft across self-taping, comedy, drama and intimacy. His training has also included working with Peter Rasmussen, Joey Vieira, Stephen Lance and Ben Parkinson, and most recently, two years of consistent training with Creating Artists coach Michael Da Costa.

Kevin has further developed his craft through industry workshops with Thea McLeod, Jovita O'Shaughnessy, Joel Pearce and Kylie Loveday.

For dialect and accent work, Kevin has trained with Barbara Hastings and, more recently, working egularly with dialect coach Helen Howard to continue strengthening his vocal and accent skills.

> Kevin, it has been such a blessing having you in class. You have trusted me with so much and expanded the community in my classroom and in your own home. Thank you. People trust you, and it's why you're given so many opportunities. What people recognise in you is reliability - a man who will get it done.
