City Of Residence: Melbourne/Naarm

Meg grew up in country NSW and was brought up with both a care of country and wicked creativity owing to her artist grandmother who took her along to nudist drawings and encouraged Meg to find her own passion. Cut to watching her first musical and Meg's life's passion became very clear. She began her formal training at Federation University's Arts Academy in 2020 where she had the pleasure of collaborating with Anthony Crowley and Shanon D Whitelock in the 2021 Australian premiere of 'Zoe Becomes A Comet' originating the role of Alice. In her final year Meg worked with Laura Burzacott on 'Exquisite Corpse,' she self-devised her own song and learnt to play the drums for the performance. In her graduating performance, she portrayed the leading role of Eurydice in Prof. Kim Durban's production of 'Welcome To Thebes.' Meg is eager to engage with the Australian performance industry and continue honing her craft across diverse projects.
