Bio

Rocky Amaranto has been training as an actor at The Rehearsal Room under Richard Sarell since 2018. He has been working in the film industry since 2005, performing various roles behind the camera from grip to focus puller and finally to editor from 2010. He decided to pursue acting because he wants to take his part in the movement to remedy the underrepresentation of people of colour in the industry both behind the scenes and perhaps, more importantly, on-screen. Rocky is of half-Indonesian and half-Filipino heredity who moved to Australia at ten years old. He is bilingual in English and Indonesian, has a natural Australian accent and an authentic Indonesian accent. He also enjoys playing and composing music through his singing and bass guitar.
