

Jazmyn Adey is a Sydney based actor and musician hailing from the rural town of Iluka. Her childhood was filled with many beach days and tumbling off lots of surf boards. From a young age Jazmyn nurtured a passion for music, specifically the piano. She found comfort in being able to express herself through song. This was quickly followed by an eager participation in various musicals and plays through which she realised acting was what she was meant to do. At 17 she embarked on a new chapter of her life, moving to Sydney to refine her craft at Sydney Actors School. She has had the privilege of working with renowned tutors such as Garth Halcombe, Andrea Demetriades, Pip Edwards, Lyn Pierse and Kate Gaul. During her studies, Jazmyn not only took on leading stage and screen roles, but also fell in love with production design. Jazmyn has always enjoyed the way movies make her feel and is excited to do this herself in the future through many different avenues
