

Jake Tyler Bio

As a graduate of the Australian Institute of Music, Jake is a multifaceted artist whose varied live performance experience has seen him perform alongside international star Adele and American composer John Bucchino. From roles in internationally touring musicals such as Cats The Musical New Zealand Tour to performances with Opera Australia, Australian Shakespeare Company and the The Tap Pack, Jake has shared his velvet voice and unique talent at urban music festivals and iconic venues like the Opera House and is equally at home in both. Jake has performed on multiple cruise lines as a production guest entertainer with Mama Montez Productions and was a part of the original cast of Rebel Wilson and Hannah Riley's new Australian musical The Deb with ATYP. Recently, Jake was cast as George in the brand new stage adaptation of Fergus Ferry: The Musical and recently toured Australia with CDP Productions as The Gruffalo in The Gruffalo. When not onstage, you can usually see Jake creating and directing new works such as Heathers: The Musical at ARA Darling Quarter Theatre in which he was nominated for a Broadway World Award for Best Direction. Most recently, Jake released his debut EP The Golden Age Project which he co-wrote and co-produced and is available on all streaming platforms.
