Georgia Crisfield-Smith

Georgia is an Australian actor based in Los Angeles. She is best known for her lead role as Tabby in teen drama franchise, Flunk. She starred across two seasons of the series, as well as feature-length spin-offs The Sleepover and Afterschool. The series airs on TV stations internationally and can be streamed on Tubi.

Her recent film work includes supporting roles in US features The All American, and Dan Pritzker's 1930s noir drama Fog City, starring Carla Gugino and Cooper Koch.

Georgia's television credits include guest and co-star roles in the STAN original miniseries Romper Stomper, directed by AFI nominee Geoffrey Wright, and Miss Fisher's Modern Murder Mysteries, available on Acorn TV and Amazon Prime. She also played supporting roles in Australian horror feature No Such Thing as Monsters and Emo the Musical, which screened at Berlinale and MIFF, and is streaming on Netflix.

Georgia is represented by Burbidge Artists Entertainment and CBM Management and is SAG-Eligible.