

Based in Melbourne, Victoria but born and raised in Perth, David has always enjoyed acting. Attending Sacred Heart College, he was involved with several drama productions with the school (Earning him the Year 12 Subject Excellence in Drama award for 2008) and with Helen O'Grady's Drama Academy. After a stint in aviation he has returned to acting with a full time focus. He is diversifying himself with a mixture of stage and screen. In the Joondalup Encore Theatre Societies production of 'Allo 'Allo, he was dedicated to changing his appearance to portray Officer Crabtree. David most enjoyed his first feature film speaking role as the local Constable in Jasper Jones "An experience I hope I will never forget". He is also one of the hosts (Colin) of the mock film review web series "F'd Up Film Show". He has trained with Loren Johnson, Fern Nicholson & Andy McPhee, with that, he is finding new ways to further develop his characters and interpretation of scripts. He is currently taking a full time course with TAFTA but is still available to work in the industry he is committed to. He is always passionate about creating unique and interesting characters and finding ways to use his voice to bring them to life.
