Summary

Jake currently attends Brave studios acting school and has previously performed in stage productions. He participates in short courses offered from time to time. These courses have allowed Jake to have a deeper understanding of being an actor and his continued training ensures he continues to evolve and enhance himself as an actor and a professional. A definite highlight has been his ability to transition from commercial work to a credited role as Paul Saad in the worldwide released, all-star Australian cast tv series, The Clearing.

Jake is a sports enthusiast and is the current 2023 Australian National Taekwondo Champion having been the Australian Ninja National and World Ninja Champion in 2022. These highly pressured competitions demonstrate that Jake has an ability to work under pressure and manage challenging and pressured environments with a motivation to succeed. Jake loves Taekwondo and Football and trains a few days a week. Jake's martial arts knowledge shows a discipline in learning as well as physical skills that he can use in any physically demanding type role. These have been highlighted in both commercial roles for NAB mini legends and Moose Toys where he was cast as the Hero.

Jake loves to perform in both a visual or voice over capacity. His resume demonstrates experience that he has been able to articulate in both capacities which confirms he has a multi layered natural understanding and skill base when it comes to acting together with experience in working on different acting platforms.

Jake loves all food, especially Japanese and is currently learning to play the alto saxophone, his other hobbies include playing basketball and going bike riding with his friends, gaming, travelling, fishing, and camping. Jake's contrasting and varied talents and hobbies show a multilayered personality with depth and skilful ability to tap into different acting roles.
