

Agustin Paz is an Argentinean actor based in Sydney. His credits include the role of Pablo in A Streetcar Named Desire at the Old Fitz Theatre, TV appearances in Deadly Women and Armed and Dangerous, and performances in over 30 plays, short films, and commercials.

Agustin trained at the New York Conservatory for Dramatic Arts (2023) under Jeremiah Craft and Robert Verlaque and studied with Les Chantry in Sydney. He honed his craft in the Meisner technique with Hunter McMahon and Adam Dunn at the Sydney Acting Studio and Stanislavski's methods under Norman Brisky in Argentina.

Fluent in Spanish, Portuguese, and English, Agustin specializes in versatile roles across stage and screen, showcasing his passion for storytelling.

Visa/Passports: Permanent resident of Australia

Languages and Accents: Argentinean Spanish, Colombian and Venezuelan Spanish, Brazilian Portuguese

Instagram: @agustinpaz0