
MARQUEE

AGNES CHOI

Agnes Choi is an actor of Chinese descent. She has been training since 2013, undertaking programs and masterclasses at NIDA, Screenwise & the Les Chantery Studio.

Most recently, Agnes played the role of Ah Kay in the feature film The Furnace, directed by Roderick McKay alongside David Wenham, Jay Ryan and Erik Thompson.

Prior to this she appeared in the short films Come Up and Get Me, Tea Time and No, I Don't Want A Photo.

Agnes is excited to be joining Monkey Baa Theatre Company's touring production of The Peasant Prince, playing the role of Niang and various other roles in the production.