

---

MARQUEE

---

TIM OMAJI

Tim Omaji is an Australian actor, singer-songwriter and dancer, whose multiple main stage theatre credits include the lead role of Tyrone Jackson in the Fame The Musical, the role of Sam Onatou in the Australian tour of MADIBA The Musical – A Celebration of the Life of Nelson Mandela, Monty in the Australia tour of Saturday Night Fever and the standout role of Benny in the critically acclaimed and sold out 2018 season of the Hayes Theatre Company's production of In The Heights.

Tim rose to fame as one of the exceptional dance contestants on So You Think You Can Dance Australia, and as a powerful singing contestant on Australia's Got Talent. Tim signed with Sony Music and as 'Timomatic' released his first single Set It Off which peaked at number two on the Australian ARIA Single Charts and delivered four times platinum sales. Timomatic was the support act for Nicki Minaj, Pitbull, Jesse J, Flo Rida, Salt N Pepa, Jason Derulo and David Guetta's Australian tours and Timomatic continues to write, produce, record and perform.

Tim will next be seen in Amazing People Pictures' Feature Film, Ruby's Choice, alongside Jane Seymour and Jacqueline McKenzie; and the Netflix/NBCU TV Series, Clickbait.