

Josie Waller is a trained theatre and film actor with over ten years experience. Most recently she was part of NIDA's Emerging Artists Festival in a devised immersive theatre performance "SOL.". She has also charmed audiences with her craft as the lead actress in a Gruen Transfer skit and on the indie theatre stage as Antonia in Tumbling Dice, Jane/Sarah in Speaking in Tongues, and Sylvia in Cagefish.

Josie received her B.A. in Performance Studies from Sydney University and her Advanced Diploma of Theatre Performance from Sydney Theatre School. She continues to hone her acting skills with ongoing improvisation classes and online courses with U.S coach Jo Kelly. Josie has also sought U.S. accent training with Robert Maxwell and other acting business courses at The Hub Studio.

Currently, Josie is represented by Gina Stoj Management and writing a cosmic-horror feature film. Josie hopes to combine her studies and experience within the industry to develop an acting practise that allows authentic performances through self awareness.
