

Georgia Slaymaker is a passionate and versatile young performer from the Gold Coast, with a solid background in musical theatre, acting, and voice. On stage, she has taken on a great range of roles, including Howard Beale in Network, JoJo in Seussical the Musical, and Marty in Grease. With a vocal range spanning E3 to F5, Georgia has picked up some impressive recognition along the way, including a Highly Commended at the Gold Coast Drama Festival and the Freddie G Inspiration Award at the Junior Theatre Festival in Atlanta, USA. She keeps developing her skills through training with the Griffith University Queensland Conservatorium of Music, the Australian Girls Choir, and the New York Film Academy, and brings a focused, mature, and collaborative energy to everything she does. Georgia is now looking to expand into more screen acting and modelling, and is eager to bring that same dedication and versatility to new opportunities in front of the camera.
