

TATIANA E SILVA

Tatiana E Silva is an Australian of Portuguese and East Timorese descent. She is able to speak Tetum the local language of East Timor and conversational Portuguese. She is a confident performer with a passion for drama and true story acting.

Tatiana is a graduate of the Australian Performing Arts Conservatory, Brisbane QLD. After completing her Bachelor's Degree in Screen and Stage Performance, in the same year landed an Internship on set of Neighbours the Australian TV series – selected from more than 150 applicants. She is not only a skilled singer, but a natural musician knowing her way around the guitar, drums and piano. Tatiana is also a trendy contemporary style dancer, delving mostly into styles like reggaeton, Brazilian funk, salsa and kizomba.

In 2022 Tatiana starred in short film How to Make a God which was selected for the Los Angeles International Sci-Fi Film Festival. Tatiana is set to appear in the upcoming season of NCIS: Sydney for Network 10/Paramount+.

