

Caitlin Berwick

Caitlin Berwick, a professionally trained Actor and Vocalist, playing parts from Shakespeare to Tony Kushner.

Caitlin completed the VCA Foundation course prior to commencing an Advanced Diploma in Acting at The National Theatre, Melbourne. There, she enjoyed a variety of roles including Harper in 'Angels in America', Clytemnestra in 'The Greek Tragedies' and Dr. Bonfila in 'Slavs'.

Since graduating, Caitlin has been privileged enough to be involved in many original Australian works. She played the lead role in new Australian musical, 'Ned Kelly, My Love' by Xavier Brouwer and Jeannette in 'RIOT' by Thomas Ian Doyle - where she also composed the score for the opening scene. Catching the musical bug, she then went onto compose original music and re-arrange torch song classic hits for the first chapter in Harvey Fierstein's Torch Song Trilogy - 'International Stud'.

Caitlin hails from a long line of artists which shines through today in her love of performance. Having a dance and music background, she is no stranger to physical theatre and has also proceeded to teach herself to play the guitar and piano. Caitlin is currently working on the first draft of her original screenplay.
