

Greg Hatton Bio 2019.

Greg Hatton began his professional acting career at age 15 with a role on Home and Away before becoming a regular face on the Sydney Independent theatre scene in the late 90s/2000s. He played the lead role of Charlie in the original critically acclaimed production of Bondi Dreaming for five seasons.

Greg then turned his attention to Film and Television, landing roles in TV staples Packed to the Rafters, My Place and Home and Away again, among others. His feature film credits include The Square, Bedlam and Dawn where his chilling portrayal of disturbed police officer, Nick, led to strong reviews. His most recent television credits include Mr In-Between season 1 and 2 for FX and Les Norton for the ABC. He begins production on upcoming STAN series The Commons in July 2019.

Greg has also featured in countless television and radio campaigns over the last decade for brands such as Foxtel, Nissan and Woolworths.

He does however still have a day job and Greg is a sort after film technician with over 10 years experience. Constantly working as a Best Boy/Dolly Grip on the highest quality domestic and international Film and TV productions.