

Professional Bio:

Veronica Peña Negrette is a Venezuelan-Australian actor based in Naarm/Melbourne. She holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Acting from the Victorian College of the Arts (VCA), graduating in 2022. During her time at VCA, Veronica showcased her talent in various productions, including standout roles such as Paulina in 'The Seagull' (directed by Bagryana Popov), Gemma in 'First Love is the Revolution' (directed by Georgina Naidu), and #25 in 'The Wolves' (directed by Yoni Prior).

In addition to her academic achievements, Veronica has expanded her repertoire through performances outside of VCA. She has contributed to the Midsumma Festival and Melbourne Fringe with her role in 'Slutnik' (directed by Tansy Gorman), and presented her original work, 'I Love Your Process', at the VCA Muse Festival.

Since graduating, Veronica has continued to make her mark on the stage, starring in 'Lemon Tree on Dregg Street' (directed by Miranda Middleton) at TheatreWorks and 'Climbers' (directed by Monique Marani) at FortyFiveDownstairs.

Veronica is not only bilingual, fluent in Spanish, but also a skilled dancer with over a decade of training. However, her true passion lies in the exploration and creation of diverse narratives within the realms of film and theatre.
