Notes

Robyn Duse is an accomplished Australian actress and producer with professional bases in Australia, Los Angeles, and New York.

Her passion for performance began in childhood when she appeared on Australia's iconic television series Young Talent Time and featured in her first commercial for Puffing Billy. From that point, her love of acting, singing, and dancing flourished.

Robyn trained extensively in Melbourne before moving to Hollywood, where she studied at renowned institutions including the Stella Adler Academy of Acting. With her strong screen presence and versatility, she has built a career across both dramatic and comedic roles.

Her credits include appearances in Australian series such as Neighbours, The Secret Life of Us, and Stingers, as well as numerous international commercials, music videos, and television campaigns. She has also worked behind the scenes on the U.S. series The Simple Life: The Encore Promo alongside Paris Hilton and Nicole Richie. Most recently, she appeared in Trey Parker's upcoming 2025 feature film, produced by Kendrick Lamar, and has presented as a television host for global brands and health awareness initiatives.

Beyond performance, Robyn has established herself as a creative leader. She co-founded the Oceanic Film & Television Association, which connects Australian and international talent with Hollywood professionals, including producer-director-writer Michael Mandaville (Taken franchise, American History X).

She also launched her own acting school in Australia, inviting respected industry professionals to deliver workshops and intensive training programs for emerging actors.

Robyn is the founder of Chrysalis Film Productions, currently developing the feature film Chrysalis with Australian and international collaborators. The story holds deep personal resonance and explores pressing global issues through a powerful narrative lens.

In addition to her work as an actor and producer, Robyn is an entrepreneur and mentor. She is committed to inspiring others, creating opportunities for creative growth, and serving as a positive role model within the entertainment industry and beyond.
