

Natalie Warzywoda

Natalie is of eastern European decent, but don't let her name or pierogi (dumpling) making skills fool you, she is a born and bred Brisbane-ite. With a diverse background in performance she brings a range of skills to each and every role and has credits across indie short films, voice-over projects, and independent feature films.

Technically, Natalie is a scientist — she's got the lab coat and safety glasses, a Science degree, and a Master's in Environmental Management to prove it.

A lover of D&D, she keeps her improv skills sharp and imagination sharper, but you'll likely find her in the garden protecting her cat from swooping birds or reading a book. Natalie is passionate, reliable, versatile and brings a grounded, down to earth and professional energy to every role. She is always ready to breath life into characters.
